Omnichannel Fulfillment & Distribution

Ecommerce is exploding for omnichannel companies as retailers continue to add ecommerce sales channels for their customers. More companies are utilizing third-party marketplaces like Amazon, eBay, and Jet.com. Even merchants that continue to add brick-and-mortar sales channels are looking to expand their ecommerce business through their own websites and through marketplaces.

Omnichannel requires a significantly more complex supply chain to deliver the seamless service, visibility and speed that today's consumers expect. That's why more and more companies are turning to Logistics Plus Fulfillment Solutions (LPFS) to help them succeed in this dynamic environment. We specialize in designing and delivering omnichannel logistics solutions for retailers, distributors, and other ecommerce companies. Our approach is solution-based and client-focused, leveraging our network of talented people, vast resources and modern technologies. Clients utilize our warehousing, fulfillment and transportation services as stand-alone offerings or as part of an integrated solution. At LPFS, order fulfillment encompasses all areas of product handling from point of manufacture, to receiving at the warehouse, to an integration of technology to allow for a seamless order flow, to picking, packing and shipping the order to handling of any returns.

We Provide Speed, Service and Scalability!
